BERN, Auguft 7.

We are very much furprifed at the fudden recall of the French minifter Reinhard. This was not at all expected, by the minifter or our government, and nobody knows the true reafon. It is very ftrange that the minifter himfelf, till this very moment, knows nothing more about ...than only what the Moniteur mentions, whether he be really recalled, and whether he fhall have another diplomatic employment or not. All this is myfterious; but it, however, fhews the plan which Buonaparte purfues more than any thing elfe. Reinhard was felected by Sieyes. He was the perfon of whom Sieyes faid to Buonaparte, as they were preparing the 18th Fructidor, C'est ... ule homme, qui entre ... nées ... is only man who en... and thus he rofe to ... the republic next to ... minifter of foreign ... the mifunderftanding ...een Buonaparte and Sieyes took place, ...einhard loft his high office, and he received the inferior one of the French minifter with the Helvetick republic, in which quality he has been nearly two years. But Buonaparte now anxioufly wifhes to put into every department of government fuch people as he has himfelf raifed, and who ...e his creatures, to fecure himfelf againft ...rivals having any influence, if they fhould think of making an attempt to fupplant him in his confular chair. For this reafon too he employs in all confiderable embaffies more military people, and very feldom diplomatifts; for the former only admire his talents as a warrior, and cannot judge of him as a ftatefman. It is known that Buonapate is partly guided in his political proceedings by Talleyrand, but he himfelf decides exclufively in the military.

GALLICAN CHURCH.

A general meeting was held this day, of the bifhops and archbifhops of France in this country, at the archbifhop of Narbonne's, in Orchard-ftreet. The object ...the meeting was to take into confidera... ...a brief of his holinefs the Pope, arrived ...this country, directed to Cardinal Erfkine, the pope's nuncio in England, and ...livered by him to M. Otto, two days ago. The purport of this brief, and of the circular letter of the Cardinal Erfkine, written to the French bifhops, by order of his holinefs, is to requeft the bifhops to give, within ten days, a renunciation of their dignities, or to fuffer certain canonical pains. His holinefs entreats them to make this laft facrifice to the peace of the church; and he engages, that fuch of them as fhall not be re-appointed to the new fees in France, by the prefent ruler of that country, Bonaparte, fhall receive a handfome provifion for life, from "the munificence of the chief conful," in any place where they may choofe to refide.

This affair has produced the greateft agitation, not only among the French princes, nobility, and clergy, but in the whole Catholic body. As the bifhops when invefted with their fees, all took the oaths of fidelity and allegiance in the hands of the king of France, they think no power on earth can releafe them from fo facred an obligation. Moreover, the Gallican Church, fupported by the French parliaments, has long rejected the authority of the Pope, afferting its independence, of which the celebrated Boffuet was, in 1682, the greateft champion. The weaknefs and ftate of bondage of the prefent pope afford juft grounds on which the bifhops can refift this act of papifh tyranny. However, the well known opinions and characters of one or two of them make the French emigrants believe that oppofition to the pope's brief will not be unanimous. The French church is in a crifis which puts it to the teft, and involves the deareft intereft of Bonaparte. It would be a new fcene, indeed, but a poffible one, in the prefent difaorganization of the moral and political world, to fee a body of French Roman Catholic bifhops living in England, and fupported by the king of Britain's bounty, now join with our church in making a public and formal declaration of—No Pope!

It is unneceffary to point out the extraordinary importance of the meafure to the power of Bonaparte, or the art with which he, who firft dethroned the pope, and finding the inconveniences of that meafure, has now raifed up a new one, makes him an ally, ufes him as an inftrument, with which he can alone reach and overthrow the eftablifhed clergy, who deny his authority. By this ftep the chief conful quiets the religious fcruples of the people of France, and reconciles the confciences of men to his government. This is one of the deepeft ftrokes of the chief conful's policy, and in this M. Otto's refidence here will, perhaps, ferve him more than by concluding a treaty of peace. To be at peace with Frenchmen, is to him of far more value than peace with the people of this country.

The following archbifhops are now in London:

Dillon, archbifhop of Narbonne, aged 81 years.

Boifgelin, archbifhop of Aix, aged 70 years.

Cice, archbifhop of Bordeaux, aged 68 years.

The bifhops of S. Paul de Leon, Noyon, Vannes, Angouleme, Montpelier, Perigeux, Lombes, Moulins, Nantes, Camignes, Ufer, Arras, and Avranches.

We have not been favored with the precife terms of his holinefs's brief, but our readers may depend on the correctnefs of the following outlines.

"Venerable Brothers,

"You have deferved fo well of the catholic religion, you have diftinguifhed yourfelves by a conduct fo exemplary, both in your collective and in your individual capacity, that we do not hefitate to propofe to you a facrifice ftill greater than any to which you have hitherto fubmitted. It is neceffary that you fhould voluntarily abandon your fees, and that you fhould freely refign them into our hands. Things have now come to that point, that it is incumbent on us to demand this facrifice, and on you to accede to it. We feel that you cannot, without the moft painful emotions, think of abandoning thofe flocks, upon which whether prefent or abfent, you have beftowed fo many cares. The knowledge we have of the excellence of your doctrine, as well as the purity of your conduct, leaves in our minds no doubt that you will not hefitate a moment about making this free abdication. We cannot believe that there will be on your part any tardinefs in agreeing to a ftep of which three hundred Catholic bifhops have in former times given you an example at Carthage. In thefe latter days many among you have profeffed this difpofition, as well in addreffing our predeceffor Pius VI. as in communications to us. Since we are now come to the crifis when your refignation becomes neceffary, we have no doubt in your readily agreeing to it; in confequence of the urgent neceffity of the times which exercifes its force upon us, we are compelled to fignify to you, that your anfwer will be neceffary within 10 days. The fame caufes lay us under the neceffity of intimating that your anfwer muft be abfolute and not evafive, fo that if you do not give us a precife anfwer within ten days, we fhall be obliged to take it for granted that you are determined not to obey our commands. On the other hand, we inform you with grief, that we fhall find ourfelves reduced to fuch an extremity in the midft of thofe obftacles which obftruct the good of religion, as to be forced to take every neceffary ftep to enforce them. After what we have faid, you will believe it is needlefs for us to repeat the affurance that we have omitted no exertion to prevent fo deplorable a propofal; but with pain we will confefs to you that all our efforts have been fruitlefs, our folicitations ineffectual, and that we have been driven to this ftep by the cruel neceffity of the times."

WASHINGTON CITY.

MONDAY, November 16, 1801.

NEWS.

Last evening arrived brig Sea Flower, Williams, 43 days from Malaga, via Gibraltar. We are favored with the papers of the latter place to Sept. 18.

OF EGYPT.

On the 10th of September the frigate Leda arrived at Gibraltar in 42 days from Egypt. Alexandria had not furrendered when fhe failed. General Menou had abruptly and indignantly rejected the propofal in the 20th article of the convention with the troops at Cairo. His garrifon confifted of but 4,100; and moft of the French foldiers were extremely defirous of returning home. It is eftimated there were 25,000 Britifh troops in Egypt.

Gibraltar, Sept. 18.

Rumors from Spain have reached the garrifon, importing that gen. Menou has furrendered Alexandria to the Britifh forces—that all the French troops are now out of Egypt; and that lord Keith is on his way down the Mediterranean. But we wait for a confirmation of this highly probable and agreeable intelligence.

CAPTURE OF A TRIPOLITAN CRUIZER.

Extract of a letter from commodore Dale, commanding a squadron of frigates in the service of the United States, to Mr. Gavino, American Consul in Gibraltar, dated Malta, 12th August.

"I am happy to inform you that Mr. Sterrett, in the fchooner Enterprize, of 12 guns, and 90 men, fell in with one of the Tripolitan cruizers off this ifland. She mounted 14 guns and 80 men. He took her after an action of three hours, killed 30 of her men, and wounded 30. Not a man hurt on board the fchooner. The Bey's cruizers have not taken any of our merchant veffels as yet."

The frigates Effex and Philadelphia failed from Malaga the 13th of September, to join the commodore off Tripoli. All the frigates were in want of provifions, and there was none to be had at Malaga or Gibraltar. It was expected the commodore would leave a frigate to blockade Tripoli, and repair himfelf to Gibraltar for provifions, &c.

The frigate George Wafhington, with the fhip Peace and Plenty under convoy, arrived at Gibraltar September 19, and failed for Algiers the 21ft, intending to ftop at Malaga for water. Brig Levant, Bradford, of Bofton, and Sufan, Wheeler, of Baltimore, failed in company with the frigate.

The Tripolitan admiral and the brig were ftill at Gibraltar, difmantled and deferted by their crews.

It was reported at Gibraltar, that the plague had again appeared in Spain; in confequence of which a quarantine of five days was laid on all veffels from Spain. The king of Spain was very ill.

Left at Gibraltar, fch'r—Hooper, of Marblehead; Mary, Ward, of Bofton, waiting trial; fhip Apollo, Thurfton, of Baltimore, ditto; Pomona, Myers, New-York, bound up; fch'r Charlotte, Haynes, of Baltimore, condemned for attempting to enter Cadiz.—An Englifh fleet of 15 fail of the line, under admiral Pole, was off that place.
