American Printed goods,

Calicoes, Shawls, Pickes Handkerchiefs,

RECEIVED by the subscriber from New Baltimore, and sold at No. 13 Calvert street.

TO remove that difficulty often felt respecting the quality of the goods, and to prejudice the manufacturing company in America, they will be in future sold for what they actually are, in the hopes to enable good artists to return their work here as well as in Europe. That the goods have been sold for the prices of the patterns were held to be indefinite as a tolerably of the best repute cannot be by their labor, long adversaded by themselves. They trust while foreign goods are not fixed without a qualifier, an unreasonable price can prevent their competition from giving that relief to their goods, which only can recover their value. Bullets assuring doubt, they know that certain interests, national as well as self-individual, will induce a disposition to their undertaking. They have no difficulty in saying, that work of the first kind has been well executed here, in other countries. The cotton capable of being fixed, will be found as permanent; the dyes possess better fastness, and the prices lower than of the imported cottons.
