The late Convention between the United States and France—May it prove the basis of an everlasting Friendship.

Celebrated at Philadelphia.

The festival was celebrated on Saturday with the accustomed gladness, by the republicans of Philadelphia and the neighbourhood.

The salute of the morning was fired for the first time for several years, from Republican artillery with Federal gunpowder. The militia legion paraded according to order in Third Street, and having passed the commander in Chief in military order, proceeded up market to south Ninth, where the accustomed salutes were fired by the artillery, and followed by a feu de joye from the Infantry.

The Legion, Horse, Foot, and Artillery assembled more numerously than on any former occasion; and several new companies joined for the first time. After the salutes were concluded, the several corps marched to their respective quarters, to enjoy.

"Song, sentiment, and dance" and the night closed as the morning had commenced without a single instance of disorder or disturbance on the part of the Republicans.

As we cannot publish all the toasts, &c. handed to us this day, we shall continue them without preference as they are presented to us.
