1873.

Louisville Commercial.

The Cheapest Daily Newspaper published South of the Ohio River, and the best published in the West, at its price.

ONLY EIGHT DOLLARS A YEAR.

More and better reading matter, more carefully arranged; fuller and more judiciously condensed news; more accurate market reports; abler and better written editorials, than given by any other daily paper at the price.

THE LEADING REPUBLICAN JOURNAL IN THE SOUTHWEST.

The LOUISVILLE COMMERCIAL is now about to enter upon the fourth year of its career. The circumstances surrounding it are more encouraging than at any previous time in its history. The barriers of prejudice which stood in the way of its progress have broken down, and something like an era of good feeling has been inaugurated. Its friends have rallied to its support and determined to aid its conductors in making it henceforward a better and more effective exponent of those principles of freedom, progress and reform upon which the Republican party is based. That party is now placed in a position in which it will be thoroughly tested. It has been trusted with power by a vote of the people, practically almost unanimous, and there is no organized party to oppose it.

The COMMERCIAL can affirm that it has greatly helped, so far as Kentucky is concerned, to bring about this change; it has met the Democratic papers at every point, exposing their misstatements, and giving a true record of the outrages chargeable to Democratic rule.

As an Advertising Medium it has no superior in Kentucky.

RATES VERY REASONABLE.

THE LARGEST AND THE CHEAPEST

REPUBLICAN PAPER IN THE SOUTHWEST.
