

We part, never to meet here again in this place, or under these auspices; but there will be a meeting under infinitely different circumstances. If we shall have lived faithful and true lives here, we shall, through the great Atonement, meet in the glories, and among the wonders of Paradise.

