Hughesville Enterprise.

— DEMOCRATIC. —

HUGHESVILLE.....LYCOMING COUNTY.....PENNSYLVANIA.

Hughesville is a town of near 1,000 population; is the terminus of the Muncy Creek railroad—a railroad running through the great hard wood country of Pennsylvania; contains three bedstead manufactories, three foundries, two manufactories of bent stuff, besides several other small manufacturing establishments. It is located in the heart of Muncy Valley, one of the best agricultural sections in the State. The Muncy Valley Farmers' Club—of which the editor of the ENTERPRISE is Secretary—is an organization comprising as members the farmers of this valley, and as the ENTERPRISE has its circulation almost entirely among this class, it is a good medium through which to reach the farmers of this section. The ENTERPRISE is the only paper in the lower end of Lycoming county not printed on the co-operative plan. The population of the lower end—taking it from the vote polled at the last election—amounts to 20,000. Advertisements well displayed, and frequent attention called to them through the local columns.
