

HISTORIC AMERICAN ENGINEERING RECORD

INDEX TO PHOTOGRAPHS

EDMUND PETTUS BRIDGE

HAER AL-209

U.S. Highway 80 spanning the Alabama River

Selma

Dallas County

Alabama

INDEX TO BLACK AND WHITE PHOTOGRAPHS

Jet Lowe, photographer, September 2012

- | | |
|----------|--|
| AL-209-1 | South approach to Edmund Pettus Bridge, looking north in the direction of Selma, Alabama. |
| AL-209-2 | View looking southwest at the east elevation of the bridge from the north bank of the Alabama River with the town of Selma on the right. |
| AL-209-3 | Perspective view, looking northeast. |
| AL-209-4 | Detail view of the scalloped ribs and concrete arches. |
| AL-209-5 | Below deck view, looking north from the south bank of the Alabama River. |
| AL-209-6 | Sign painted on abandoned restaurant along the south approach of the bridge in memory of the attack on marchers on "Bloody Sunday," March 9, 1965. |