Significance:

The U.S. Naval Base, Pearl Harbor was designated as a National Historic Landmark in 1964; due to the crucial role it played in the Nation's defense during the twentieth century and the calamitous events which occurred on December 7, 1941. As a Category 3 structure, it is determined that Building No. 1026 functioned as a part of the Pearl Harbor Naval Base, but is only of minor importance to the historic character of the National Landmark.

Description:

Building No. 1026 is a temporary single story, 20 foot high, 41 foot wide, 100 foot long Quonset hut. The building is constructed of steel arch ribs and corrugated metal sheathing on a reinforced concrete slab.

History:

Building 1026, a Storage Facility, was built in 1944 at the end of Magazine Loch at a cost of $23,856. Building 1026 is a part of a Special Weapons Building Compound, constructed to support the Pacific submarine fleet. The compound consisted of six Quonset huts enclosed by perimeter fence; buildings included a Overhaul Shop, Crew's Quarters, Office/Shop Building, and Storage Buildings. Presently, the building is utilized as a Special Services Storage Building.
