

EASTER MILITARY WEDDING IN TORONTO.
Captain Eric Egerton Ryerson of the 123rd Canadian Battalion, Son of Surgeon General G. Sterling Ryerson, Leaving Grace Church-on-the-Hill, With His Bride, Formerly Miss Mona
Miller McClure.

(Photo from British and Colonial Press, Ltd.)

BLIND FRENCH SOLDIER
Telling Little Friends the Story
Of the Battle in Which He Lost His Sight.

Member of the United States Signal Corps, High Up in the Branches of a Tree in Mexico, Signaling Orders to a Distant Command, While His Comrade Reads Them to Him.

(Photo © International Film Service.)

UNITED STATES CAVALRY IN MEXICO HALT IN THE SHADE BY A STREAM TO REST AND WATER THEIR HORSES.

(Photo © by Underwood & Underwood.)

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH OF RUSSIAN TROOPS NOW IN FRANCE TO FIGHT WITH THE ALLIES ON THE WEST FRONT.

This picture, which came by the S. S. Rochambeau, arriving on last Monday, shows Russian soldiers drilling in front of their barracks in Paris. These are manifestly not of those Russian troops who landed at Marseilles on Thursday, April 20, but are reported to be a part of a contingent which debarked at Toulon early in April, in citizens' clothes, and were supposed to be Serbian refugees.

(Photos © by Medem Photo Service.)