An addition to the collection primarily contains letters written by Wheelock, as well as two letters from his wife, to poet Henry Taylor. The relationship between the elderly Wheelock with the young Taylor was professional and one of friendship. The letters convey details of the final decade of Wheelock's life. Also in the addition is a letter written by Wheelock to Mrs. Arthur Scribner in 1927 and a collection of material, including some correspondence, from his second cousin Charlotte Salisbury.
