Biographical Note

Samuel Prowse Warren was born in Montreal, Quebec on February 18, 1841, the son of organ builder Samuel Russell Warren (1809-1882). At the age of 12, he had shown enough musical ability to give his first organ recital at St. Stephen's Chapel in Quebec and to be appointed as organist at the American Presbyterian Church, a position that he held until he went to Berlin at age 20 to study organ and theory with Karl August Haupt, piano with Gustav Schumann, and instrumentation with Wilhelm Wieprecht. After returning to Montreal, he moved to New York, where he gave his first public recital in January 1866. Later that year he was appointed organist of All Souls Unitarian Church, a position he held until April 1868. He played at Grace Episcopal Church from 1868 to 1874 and at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church from 1874 to 1876. He returned to Grace Church in 1876 and remained at this position until 1894. While at Grace Church, Warren took an active part in the musical life of New York City, especially in the realm of organ and both sacred and secular vocal music. He established a weekly series of organ recitals and was organist for Leopold Damrosch's Oratorio Society from 1874 to 1879. He conducted the New York Vocal Union from 1880-1888. In 1895 Warren accepted a position as organist at the First Presbyterian Church in East Orange, New Jersey, and one year later participated in the founding of the American Guild of Organists, becoming an honorary president of the Guild in 1902. He died in East Orange on October 7, 1915.

Scope and Content Note

The Samuel P. Warren Collection consists of correspondence, concert and recital programs, church service programs and related materials that were either collected by Warren himself or given to him by his students, colleagues and others in the New York City and throughout the United States. The collection spans the years from 1850 to 1914, with the bulk of the material covering the years 1880-1910.

The letters in the collection, all of which are addressed to Warren, are from a variety of sources, including a number of Warren's pupils who later received some fame in their own right, such as William Crane Carl, Gerrit Smith, William C. Macfarlane, Frederick T. Steinway, and W. C. Hammond. There is also correspondence from colleagues and friends such as Dudley Buck, H. Clarence Eddy, H. E. Krehbiel, and Horatio Parker, Gustave Schirmer, and C. M. Widor.

Among the programs in the collection are a chronological series of church service bulletins that outline Warren's work at Holy Trinity Church and Grace Church in New York and First Presbyterian Church in East Orange, New Jersey, dating from 1874 until his death in 1914. Many of these items are annotated, and taken as a whole provide a glimpse of Warren's church music activities Sunday by Sunday for 40 years. Especially interesting are the handwritten service notes containing hymn numbers for weekday services for which a printed program was not prepared.

The collection also contains important concert and recital programs from New York's major concert halls of the period. Noteworthy programs include those from: Carnegie Hall, featuring concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Manuscript Society of New York, the Musical Art Society of New York, the Russian Symphony Society, and recitals by Paderewski; Chickering Hall, with programs featuring Hans von Bülow, Vladimir de Pachmann, the Mendelssohn Glee Club, and the New York Vocal Union; and the Metropolitan Opera House, with performances by the Philharmonic Society of New York and the Damrosch Opera Company.

This collection was processed by Michael Ferrando, Technician and Robert Saladini, Music Specialist, December 1992.
