

The Eleventh Cavalry, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel H. T. Allen, has just watered the horses at Juniper Lake, near Bachiniba, Mexico. The photograph was taken while the Eleventh was hot on the trail of Villa

General Pershing (on extreme left) and Major Ryan (centre), his Intelligence Officer, interrogating Mexican peons near Bachiniba

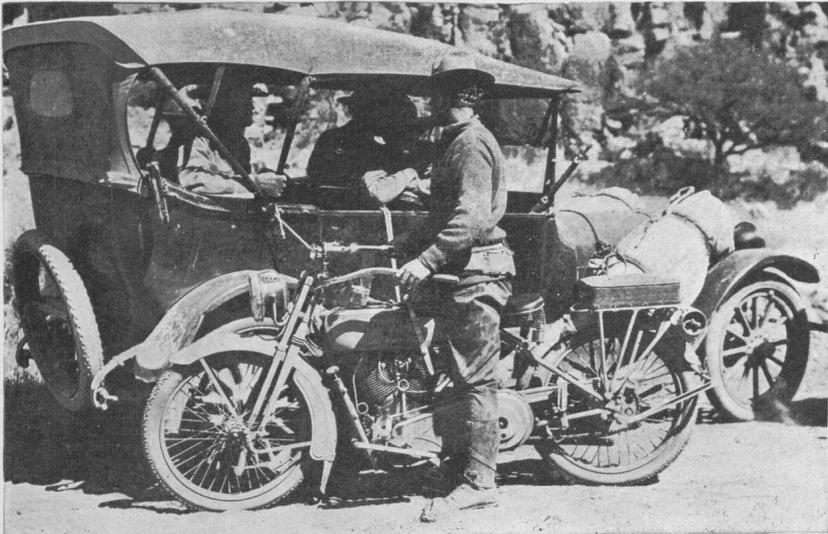

Lieutenant Dargue (in helmet, left) reporting after a scouting flight to General Pershing and his staff at El Valle.

Scenes Like These Await the New York National Guardsmen Marching Into Mexico

Exclusive photographs taken by Robert Dunn, The Tribune's Special Correspondent with General Pershing's force

NEAR CASAS GRANDES—One of the automobile truck trains which have been keeping General Pershing's headquarters supplied with food, ammunition and other necessities, travelling between his base and the United States-Mexico border line.

General Pershing receiving news of the disposition of Mexican regular and bandit forces from a motorcycle scout at Valle Silla Pass, near Namiquipa.

Mexican peons at San Geronimo. They travelled to General Pershing's camp to tell him, supposedly, of Villa's whereabouts. General Pershing, wearing a "slicker," can be seen in the left background.