

THE MANOR HOUSE ON GARDINER'S ISLAND, AT THE EXTREME EASTERN END OF LONG ISLAND, FIFTEEN MILES FROM THE MAINLAND. This Famous Manor Property, the Oldest in the State Still in Possession of the Lineal Descendants of the Original Owners, Was Bought from the Indians by the First Lion Gardiner in 1639. The Rich Shooting Preserves of the Island Have Recently Been Leased to Clarence H. Mackay, Who Will Build a Hunting Lodge There.

VIEW IN ONE OF THE GUEST ROOMS

(Photos by Robert W. Tebbs.)

Capt. Kidd Hollow, a Well-Authenticated Spot Where the Famous Pirate Buried Much of His Treasure, Now Marked by a Stone

LION GARDINER OF NEW YORK, Present Owner of the Island, at the Entrance to His Oak Forest, Stocked With Deer and Many Kinds of Wild Fowl

THE ENTRANCE HALL OF THE MANOR HOUSE
The Photographs of Gardiner's Island on This Page Were Made Expressly for the Picture Section of The Times