Nearly Five Thousand Serbian Prisoners of War Brought Together in a Field Outside of Jagodina for Transportation to Concentration Camps in the Austrian Interior.

FRENCH SENTINEL AT A "LISTENING POST" TEN YARDS FROM THE GERMAN TRENCHES.

The "listening posts," of which photographs have been extremely rare, are trenches, protected by machine guns, running out many yards from the front line to within a few feet of the enemy's trenches, from which conversation may readily be heard. Behind the sentinel stands a shotgun to be used instead of the rifle for close work if necessary.
