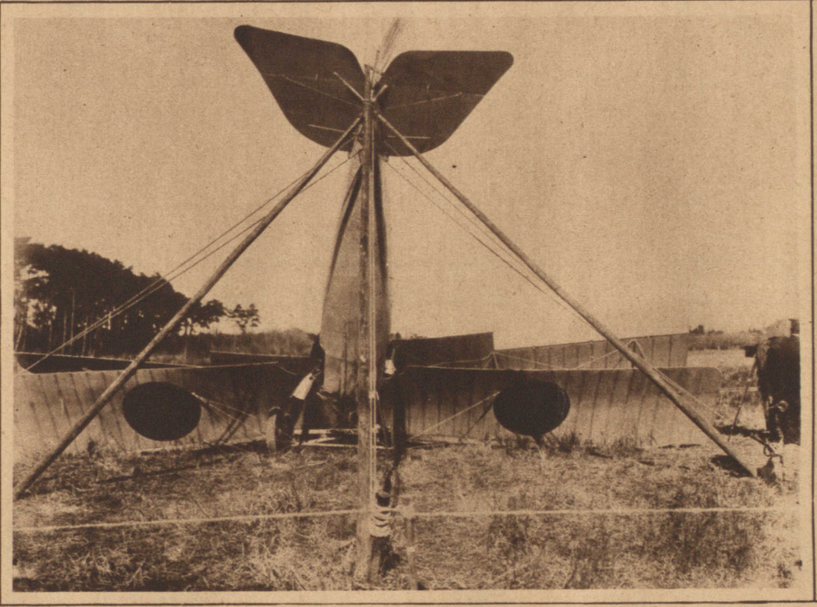
On the Italian front. In the Piave Valley Austrian and German troops built this temporary bridge over one destroyed by the Italians.
© Theo. Moussault

Lieutenant Morikichi Sakamoto, of the Japanese Aviation Corps, who was killed making a flight at the military aviation ground at Tokorozawa.
© K. Adachi



The Japanese military aircraft Sei No. 2, which fell with Lieutenant Sakamoto. Immediately after the machine fell workmen built supports, so that the position of the machine might be maintained until experts had a chance to examine it.
© K. Adachi

Kamesaburo Yamashita, one of the "Ship Narikins," as the war millionaires in Japan are now called. His offer of 1,000,000 yen for building up the aviation service of the Japanese army and navy was accepted by the government.
© K. Adachi

One of the camps in France at which our troops are training before going into the trenches.
© International Film